

Virtual Cambridge University Press Workshop

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS

The English Department participated in a virtual workshop with its partner Cambridge University Press on Wednesday, December 7th 2022. The workshop was presented by Ms Laura Moulton, the Professional Learning & Development Manager at Cambridge University Press. The workshop focused on tips on using the skills-based structure of Cambridge books.

The English Department had a virtual workshop with its partner Cambridge University Press on Wednesday, December 7th 2022. The workshop was presented by Ms Laura Moulton, the Professional Learning & Development Manager at Cambridge University Press. It was attended by the following members of the English Department: Alban Beqiri, Abdallah Al-Farhan, Fares Al-Shammari & Ruba Najia. The workshop focused on tips on using the skills-based structure of the Cambridge books the English Department have been using since 2016 within the constraints of both time (3 hours per week) and a large number of students per classroom (35-40). The workshop provided insights on how to use specific parts of the book best to maximize learning. The English Department plans to conduct another workshop with Cambridge in the Spring Semester focused on another topic of interest and importance.